KOKOMO WINERY

"Our main goal is to craft each wine individually to represent the vineyard from which it was born".

- Erik Miller

Located in beautiful Dry Creek Valley, the winery produces ultra-premium wines with a emphasis on single vineyards.

The focus of Kokomo Winery is to make the best wine possible from only the finest vineyards of Sonoma County.

Kokomo Winery was founded in 2004 by winemaker/owner Erik Miller. Erik chose to honor his hometown of Kokomo, Indiana when naming his winery, and selected the Coastal Cypress tree as the logo to signify his move out west.

At Kokomo Winery we prize the relationship with our growers and the vineyards they farm. They are a crucial component in creating world class wines.

Winery partner Randy Peters is a fourth generation Dry Creek Valley farmer. Randy farms in three of Sonoma County's prestigious appellations.

"Wine is made in the vineyard."
