

Winemaker and founder ERIK MILLER chose to honor his hometown of Kokomo, Indiana when naming his winery, and selected the Coastal Cypress tree as the logo to signify his move west.

Winery partner RANDY PETERS is a fourth generation Dry Creek Valley farmer—farming in three of Sonoma County's prestigious appellations.

"OUR MAIN GOAL IS TO CRAFT EACH
WINE INDIVIDUALLY TO REPRESENT THE VINEYARD FROM WHICH IT WAS BORN."

OWNER / WINEMAKER

KOKOMO WINERY—perched on the east side of DRY CREEK VALLEY amidst TIMBER CREST FARMS' 120 acres of prime benchland vineyards— was founded in 2004 by winemaker Erik Miller. They produce over a dozen different varietals and several single vineyard designates which are farmed by grower and winery partner RANDY PETERS.

Kokomo Winery's terroir-driven wines focus on the three distinctive appellations of Sonoma County - RUSSIAN RIVER, DRY CREEK and ALEXANDER VALLEYS. We prize the relationship with our growers and the vineyards they farm. They are a crucial component in creating world class wines.

Kokomo winery takes pride in being a family winery, creating a place for visitors to enjoy a comfortable wine tasting experience immersed in the wine cellar ambience. Erik's Hoosier hospitality is infused into the friendly tasting room team—you'll always be greeted with a warm welcoming smile and an unassuming approach to wine tasting.
